MEET STAN

The Southeast Texas Alerting Network

STAN is a multi-function telephone messaging and notification system that keeps the communities of Southeast Texas connected to important events in the area. Through STAN, industrial companies and local agencies can provide the public with timely information about urgent incidents occurring in Southeast Texas.

Community residents can call 1-877-843-7826 toll-free, anytime to receive updates regarding plant operations in their local areas.

In the event of an emergency that warrants activation, STAN's ring-down system can place a phone call to residents' home numbers providing information on what actions need to be taken in response to the emergency. Residents can also elect to receive these alerts as a call or text message on their cell phones by registering on www.thestan.com.

Capabilities of STAN:

- 1 • Delivers emergency messages to the Southeast Texas region through a ring-down system that notifies affected areas by calling home phone numbers and placing calls and/or text messages to registered cell phones.
- 2 • Enables the public to call into the system and listen to messages placed there by users.
- 3 • Automatically notifies the media when an emergency event occurs, so the media can notify greater numbers of local residents.

STAN was developed by the Local Emergency Planning Committees of Hardin, Jefferson and Orange counties, in partnership with the Industry of Southeast Texas (ISET) and local media.
